

ABSTRACT

A cutting tool provides a device for cutting a plate glass corner. The structure includes upper and lower blades which are opened and closed to cut the plate glass. The upper and lower blade edge lines mutually oppose each other to form a cutter body having a scissor shape. The upper and lower blade edge lines also coincide with the planned cut line of the corner section of the plate glass.